

Practices for Verification of Student Identity

Red Lake Nation College does not offer any distance or correspondence programs. However, one or two distance education courses may be taught each semester. Additionally, all students use the Canvas Learning Management System for all courses and must access to upload work and review grades. All RLNC students who take a distance education course must authenticate their identity (via an assigned RLNC login ID and personally selected password) prior to accessing any online educational materials or submitting materials for grading. There are no additional costs to students who take distance education courses.
